

Cats who have / may have fleas.

We recommend treating with Advantage®. It should be applied monthly to the back of the head.

Fleas:

A flea's lifespan is about three months. It is possible to get rid of fleas in a house or apartment by treating all the cats and dogs for four months with Advantage®. After treating consistently for four months, any pet who doesn't go outside may not need to be treated again. Each pet who does go outside should remain on treatment throughout the year.

Tapeworms:

Cats get tapeworms from (grooming themselves and then) ingesting fleas. (They can also get tapeworms from eating rodents.) These are small worms that look like a piece of rice. When tapeworms dry, they look like sesame seeds. Tapeworms are usually harmless, but most people choose to treat for them. The medication we use is a prescription drug. In order to dispense it, we need to have examined the cat within the previous year. As long as this is the case, if you see tapeworm segments, you can call us and we can get a prescription ready for you.
